Shining the Light of Christ

CATHOLIC EDUCATION WEEK

7th to 13th February 2010

The theme of Catholic Education Week 2010, beginning today is Shining the Light of Christ. During this week we are asked to celebrate the many ways in which our homes, our schools and our parishes can ensure that the light of Christ's love shines out in the world, through our words and our actions.

Young people are bombarded with messages through the media, on the Internet and in the High Street. Many of these encourage them to dress in particular ways, to possess the latest technology, to behave in ways which are deemed to be pleasurable and attractive.

In the face of these pressures, and overwhelmed by the scale of global consumerism, parents and teachers can struggle to communicate other messages - of loving, respectful and responsible behaviour.

But, the task is not impossible. When young people know that they are being treated with respect, when their dignity as individuals is honoured, when they are nurtured in values and virtues for life, they know that this is how they really want to live their lives. They may not say so but, in due time, they will show their appreciation and their acceptance of this nurturing in values and faith.

Every day, in schools across Scotland, young people are given opportunities to show that they are Shining the Light of Christ - when they learn to respect and care for others, when they support people in need locally or in some remote corner of the world, when they pray for those who are ill or bereaved, when they dedicate their lives to caring professions, when they show concern for God's creation which others have polluted, when they develop as tomorrow's parents, teachers, politicians and leaders.

"You are the light of the world. A city that is set on a hill cannot be hidden. Nor do they light a lamp and put it under a basket, but on a lampstand, and it gives light to all who are in the house. Let your light so shine before men, that they may see your good works and glorify your Father in heaven."
Matthew 5:14-16
