CATHOLIC EDUCATION WEEK

Next Sunday there will be a SECOND COLLECTION for Catholic Education Week. This collection enables the Bishop's Conference to finance the work of the Scottish Catholic Education Service. SCES provides support, resources and advice to Bishops, to schools and to parishes across Scotland. SCES has been responsible for developing the new religious education syllabus, 'This is our Faith'

The mission of the Catholic school is to develop as a community of faith and learning, providing the highest quality of education, and offering formation through the promotion of Gospel values, through celebration and worship, and through service to the common good.

A Catholic school is a community of love and hope. It provides young people with a Catholic education which perceives life as a faith journey. The ultimate aim of a Catholic school is to develop the full potential of all young people, leading to their life-long activities being guided by the Spirit and presence of Christ, in the service of God and of others.

Catholic education is distinctive in placing all learning and teaching in a Catholic moral context and in both challenging and supporting young people to develop in mind, body and spirit. The role of a Catholic school is to help everyone in the school community to discover the true value and dignity of each and every human being who, loved by God, has a mission on earth and a destiny which is eternal.

The Catholic school is an open community, concerned with the education of the whole person. It presents a unique, clear vision of God, people and life, centred on Gospel values and reflective of the teaching of the Catholic Church. Hence, the formation of each person is regarded as being as important as the information which is transmitted through the teaching offered.

The Catholic school is supported in its mission by the active partnership of the home, the school and the parish. Together, they provide support for the faith community, helping to form and develop in all a mature Christian conscience, in addressing the increasingly secular influences of popular culture.

CATHOLIC EDUCATION WEEK 2012

My dear people,

This week, as we celebrate the Church's mission to teach, I am delighted to be able to commend to you a recent publication of the Bishops' Conference.

You will be familiar with these words from the Rite of Baptism:

"This is our faith. This is the faith of the Church. We are proud to profess it, in Christ Jesus our Lord." These words are spoken as parents and godparents stand with the child who is being baptised, holding a lit candle which symbolises the light of faith being offered to the child.

This Is Our Faith is a fitting title, therefore, for the new document which, with the endorsement of the Holy See, now governs the teaching of Catholic religious education in Scotland. It has been designed to offer children and young people a vision of life which proclaims the world to be God's creation, humans to be made in the image and likeness of God and Jesus Christ to be our Redeemer and Lord.

It embraces a vision of religious education which provides opportunities to learn about Jesus, to understand His teaching, to develop the virtues and values which He promotes and to follow Him as "the Way, the Truth and the Life".

This Is Our Faith will shape the planning of opportunities for faith learning which are provided in the classroom and are enriched by learning at home and in the parish. It will be a great source of support and inspiration for teachers, families and parishes as they accompany young people on their journeys of faith.

This Is Our Faith will help us all, in the words of Pope Benedict XVI, to "form new generations not only in knowledge of the faith but in every aspect of what it means to live as mature and responsible citizens in today's world."

On behalf of the Bishops' Conference, I wish to express deep gratitude to all those who have contributed to the development of this significant new document, which has been published by our own Scottish Catholic Education Service whose work you are asked to support with your prayers and your contribution to next Sunday's second collection.

With every good wish and blessing,

Yours in Christ

+ Joseph Devine
