Some people are born deaf. In others, hearing is impaired through accident, illness or age. Then, there are those whose hearing is nearly perfect but who never listen. Listening is a decision. It is a decision to give another person one's full attention and to focus on all that is being communicated. Without listening, there can be no trust and no love. Such listening is an acquired skill. In our busy noise filled world, few are prepared to invest themselves in listening especially, to the brother and sister in need or more rare-ly, still, to really listen to God speaking through creation and his Church.

In today's gospel, the Father challenges not only Peter, James and John but each one of us to listen to the beloved Son. The setting was magnificently staged. Jesus had taken the trio to Mount Tabor to be with him while he listened to the Father. Impetuous Peter could not stay still and listen. He wanted to rush off build-ing tents that nobody needed.

Something similar often happens in our human relationships as well as in our relationship with God. The temptation is to be up and doing something for the deprived when often their greater need is for somebody to listen respectfully to them. It happens in families where the conscientious parent is so stretched providing for the children that there is no time to listen. The loss is great. At other times, we can be so busy talking to God that we never really listen. Here, the loss is enormous.

To be a listener is of the essence of being Christian. Listening to a loved one or to God is at the centre of growing in maturity and grace. It is only as we really listen to each other that we can hear the voice of the beloved whom he promised to send us.

SCIAF 2016

21st February (2nd Sunday of Lent)
WEE vote, BIG change

On 5th May, Scotland goes to the polls to elect a new government. Whoever wins, let's make sure they hear the Pope's call to put people and planet first. Please fill in the campaign card that came with your WEE BOX and return it to SCIAF or take action at www.sciaf.org.uk/campaigns

Once again, the UK Government has agreed to double donations made to SCIAF WEE BOX BIG CHANGE Lenten Appeal between 5 February and 4th May. Please make sure you take you Wee Box today if you did not receive it last Sunday. These are returned on Holy Thursday at the Mass of the Lord's Supper.
